

Photo Disclaimer

As I come across photos showing just about anything involving Aerial Firefighting, or any other miscellaneous albums that are put up, I will post them here. I make no claims, unless indicated, that actually I took the photo. I will make every attempt to properly credit the photographer or owner, or indicate where I came across the photo, preferably by showing a link. If anyone sees a photo they own the copyright to and takes issue with it please contact me immediately. I will either remove the item(s) or properly credit the source, depending upon the wishes of the owner. If I have no information about the source and you do please drop me an email.

Remember, it is all about the links! I'm simply attempting to assemble all the information I can about the industry into one convenient place. From here you will be linked out to the parent sources.
